It unites the packaging interests of all trades and industries in the Asia Pacific Region and beyond under cooperative umbrella. Asian Packaging Conference (APC)

In the recent days, it is observed that few of the major socio economic factors like globalization, liberalization, increase of literacy resulting into the increasing of health consciousness, increase of purchasing power capacity due to increase of dual income group, consumerism, increase of more working women leads to increase of demand for ready to eat food, booming of retail market etc., have caused to gear up the increase of demand for the consumption of packaging materials. This has led to increase the production capacity by considering the innovation processing technology and also to develop the efficient packaging materials in terms of enhanced mechanical properties, barrier properties, optical properties and thus to upgrade the functional properties of packaging materials to meet the requirements of the international market.

The main objective of the two days Asian Packaging Conference is to highlight the latest trends and technologies of various packaging materials, conversion technologies, packaging machineries with automation to increase the productivity and to reduce the wastage and also to meet the requirement of the packaging user industry to satisfy the demands of modern consumers. The various topics will be covered by the galaxy of speakers from India and overseas who would deliver the presentations around the theme.

Theme of APC - Packaging : 3S (Safe Secure Sustainable)

The theme of the Conference is "Packaging : 3S (Safe Secure Sustainable)". The theme was chosen by considering the fact that the packaging plays a vital role in the growth of economy of the country. The economic growth of the country is largely affected by the packaging industry in terms of high volume of production of packaging raw materials, its conversion into different forms of packaging and the usage of different forms of packaging by the user industries with the help of innovative packaging machinery. Considering this aspect, this particular theme is found to be more appropriate in the today's context.

Research Conclave - Concurrent Event

It is also proposed to organize Research Conclave as per parallel session concurrently. The main objective of the Research Conclave is to encourage the young students from the universities who are involved into packaging research.

1. Oral Presentation

The scientists who have developed the innovative packaging materials and systems through packaging systems will be invited to make their research paper presentation during this session of Research Conclave. It is believed that the Research Conclave would enable to attract the young scientists from India as well as overseas universities to make research paper presentation. This will definitely motivate the young researchers and scientists to enhance the credibility of research in the field of packaging.

2. Poster Session

It is also planned to have a Poster Session on Research Papers where the students from different universities and also from the colleges involved to food technology, polymer technology, printing technology, packaging design etc., will be participating by displaying the posters.
